Thousands add voice to schools shake-up

CLOSE to 5,000 people have now had their say on a proposed shake-up of the local education system and school closures in Haverhill.

Parents from the town and surrounding areas have been hearing more information about Suffolk County Council's school organisation review.

Governors, headteachers and the council want to create two primary and secondary school federations for the Haverhill area.

Chalkstone, Castle Hill and Parkway middle schools would be among the first to close, along with Clare Middle School, under the proposals, which could be introduced in 2011/12.

The changes will also affect the Lowestoft area and concerned parents there have joined meetings to hear about the plans.

There has been fierce opposition from parents to the proposals, which have been described as a "disaster" and "totally inadequate" by Martin Goold, county secretary of the NUT union.

A lobby group formed to fight the plans, Parents Against Change, says evidence the change will benefit children is flawed and that middle schools were better than large secondary schools for children from the ages nine to 13.

More than 3,000 people have attended consultation meetings about the proposed school closures. Education chiefs have received more than 1,500 paper questionnaires from people giving their views on the proposals and a further 200 people have responded via an online survey.

There are just two weeks left before consultation finishes and the county council wants to hear from people who have not yet had their say.

■ HAPPY FAMILY . . . the Badenoch family, of Haverhill, is like any other. Parents Charlotte and Tim share a happy, healthy and enjoyable life with their daughters Ellena, six, and Georgia, three. But they know it might not always be so simple – there are bound to be stares and comments which come with albinism, a lack of pigment in the skin, which affects both the girls. Tim wants Ellena and Georgia to be treated like everyone else, but he tells the Weekly News why fighting ignorance about the condition may be the family's biggest battle. See full story – Page 4.

JULY

THE annual Haverhill Show got the go-ahead after Weekly News readers answered an appeal for volunteers – and the event raised plenty of money for local charity LAMPH. Entertainment included displays from dancers, karate experts, police dogs and motorbikes. A 55-year-old man from Haverhill pleaded guilty to 17 child porn offences and was jailed for nine months. Melvyn Joyce had initially blamed his wife for downloading some of the 477 indecent images found on his computer, but admitted his guilt before his trial began.

cuts of up to £400,000. A petition started after it emerged that the reductions could force redundancies and a 55 per cent drop in the number of appointments available.

■ CASH BATTLE . . . local GP practice managers Ann Sisson and Marion McLaine helped collect signatures in August to fight planned funding cuts.

THE Weekly News continues its look back at the past year, this week shining the spotlight on the headlines that made the news in the Haverhill area during the last six months of 2007.

■ ON THE MEND . . . Ian and Sarah Coulson started a fundraising campaign for Addenbrooke's Hospital in August after their daughter, Amy (pictured), underwent a life-saving brain tumour operation there.

Pupils at Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College called for a memorial to one of Haverhill's forgotten heroes – grocer James Wright, who had taken a stand against the slave trade in 1792 by refusing to sell sugar because it was "stained with human blood". History students discovered Wright's courageous decision while learning about the abolition movement, and councillors are now considering their request. A party was held in Steeple Bumpstead to celebrate the recovery of eight-year-old Amy Coulson from a life-threatening brain tumour. Parents Ian and Sarah decided to raise money for Addenbrooke's Hospital, Cambridge, where Amy underwent a six-hour operation to remove the growth.

SEPTEMBER

The month began with a sheepdog trial with a difference at Thurlow Village Fair, with geese being herded around the ring due to foot-and-mouth restrictions. The event raised more than £5,000 for community organisations. The £460,000 redevelopment of Jubilee Walk in Haverhill was criticised after taking nine months to complete instead of the scheduled three. Town councillors slammed the quality of work by St Edmundsbury Borough Council's engineers, and one local resident panned a cat sculpture at the centre of the renovation, describing it as "a bit of bent tin".

A thief with a sweet tooth was caught by police after he left his DNA on cakes and drinks he scoffed during burglaries. Twenty-eight-year-old Michael Longden, from Haverhill, was traced through DNA on a spoon he used to eat lemon meringue pie at a hotel, and a can of chocolate-flavoured protein drink he found in a fridge. As he was jailed for 15 months, Longden was told that he was the "author of his own misfortune".

OCTOBER

Angry Kedington residents accused drunken youths of running riot through the village at weekends, causing repeated damage to the primary school and even attempting to firebomb the library. The building suffered scorching after lit material was pushed through the door.

Parents at a Haverhill school reacted furiously after maggots were found in their children's lunch. The parasites were found in rice which was meant to go with a curry at Chalkstone Middle School – but they were spotted before the dish was served up.

David and Marion Rowlinson, former landlords of the Plough Inn in Hundon, raised thousands of pounds for a local hospice by walking the length of the Great Wall of China. David said the trek, in aid of St Nicholas'

Hospice in Bury St Edmunds, was "a wonderful experience". Pizza delivery man Ali Yagir was hailed as a hero after saving a man from a fire in the kitchen of one of his regular customers. Ali, who runs Dial-a-Pizza in Haverhill, revealed that he had always wanted to be a firefighter, after rescuing his neighbour's lodger.

NOVEMBER

Discontent over Suffolk County Council's plans to ditch middle schools continued to rumble on, with parents of Clare Middle School, which faces closure under the scheme, setting up a protest group. Headteacher Nigel Clark lent his support to the parents, as the council announced another round of consultation.

■ 'BENT TIN' . . . a sculpture of local cat, Owen, divided many Haverhill residents when it was unveiled in the revamped Jubilee Walk in September. St Edmundsbury Borough Council also came under fire, accused of dragging its heels by taking nine months to complete the work.

accident was close to the spot where 15-year-old schoolgirl Imogen Barker of Castle Camps, died last February.

Council Tax payers in Haverhill could face a tax hike to subsidise free travel for pensioners, after a government grant failed to cover the cost of the scheme, leaving a £225,000 shortfall.

Town Mayor Ted Trebble was able to return home for Christmas after spending six months in hospital recovering from a stroke.

It was announced that Haverhill will benefit from £5 million in government funding awarded to St Edmundsbury Borough Council to improve its infrastructure.

■ TREKKERS . . . former publicans David and Marion Rowlinson raised vital cash for St Nicholas' Hospice in October when they complete a Great Wall of China walk.

OAP is hurt in village collision

A KEDINGTON pensioner is fighting for his life after being involved in a collision with a car close to his home.

The man – believed to be Roy Webb, who is in his 70s, of Mill Road, Kedington – suffered serious head injuries when he was in collision with a black Vauxhall Corsa, at 9.10pm on Sunday.

The collision occurred close to the White Horse pub in Sturmer Road, Kedington, and the injured man was taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital, in Cambridge, with serious head injuries and multiple broken bones. His condition was described as "critical" on Wednesday.

A Suffolk Police spokesman said no information was available about the occupants of the Corsa, who were believed to have escaped injury. Police are appealing for witnesses to the collision and anyone with information should contact Pc Terry Beddington on (01284) 774100 or Crime-stoppers on 0800 555 111.

■ SUCCESS ... sixth former Charlotte Bunting has been offered a place at Oxford's Corpus Christi College.

Oxford place awaits high achiever

YOUNG scholar Charlotte Bunting is believed to have become the first pupil from a Haverhill sixth form college to win a place at Oxford University. The 17-year-old Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College pupil is to read English. Charlotte has been provisionally offered a place at Corpus Christi College. They only offer five places a year to around 200 applicants, most from private schools. Proud father Stephen said: "I am so proud of her. Irrespective of whatever result she gets in the degree she has achieved so much already. It was such a lengthy application process." As well as the considerable UCAS application, Charlotte also had to obtain references from her school, pass an entrance exam, send in three pieces of work to be reviewed and then go through a gruelling interview. Mr Bunting said: "The interview was especially difficult for her because we had a family bereavement the week before, which was very upsetting for her." Charlotte, of Wortham Place, Haverhill, said: "It was terrifying but I can't wait to go now."

Charlotte is currently a student in the sixth form at Samuel Ward, having previously been at New Cangle and Chalkstone Middle School.

She earned three As in English literature, history and biology at A1/As level, as well as a 100 per cent mark in English language at the same level. She also had six As, six A's and one B at GCSE.

Charlotte wants to work in publishing once she completes her studies.

She said: "I chose a degree that I would enjoy so that when I finish it will hopefully help me get a job I enjoy."

Coun Patricia O'Brien, the council's portfolio holder for children, schools and young people's services said: "There has been a good response to consultations so far. There are still two weeks before consultations close and I would urge all those people who have not yet responded to do so before January 18.

"It is important to remember that the consultation is not a voting exercise. We want to collect views on the various options in order to judge which option best meets the criteria which the county council agreed in March last year."

Safety pledge for killer junction

BY Rachel Exance

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

AN accident blackspot has been put at the top of the list for improvements just weeks after another life was lost.

Cambridgeshire County Council's cabinet has made the Park Hill and Horseheath Green junction on the A1307 its number one priority and approved a £200,000 scheme for improvements.

The stretch of road claimed the life of Peter Rogers, 34, of Chedburgh Place, Haverhill, when his Ford Transit van overturned on December 1.

He died 300 metres east of the spot where schoolgirl Imogen Barker, 15, was killed in February.

Now highways chiefs are working on a scheme to provide a right-turn lane, pedestrian refuge in the centre of the road and better road markings.

Work could begin in the next financial year if there is sufficient Government funding.

The news has been welcomed by campaigners. Linton councillor John Batchelor said he hoped the new road layout would slow traffic down and aid the bid for a 50mph limit on the stretch.

He said: "Clearly it's more than welcome. Thanks very much and let's get on with it."

Coun Mac McGuire, lead member for highways and transport, said the death of Mr Rogers and young Imogen, as well as a number of injury accidents, had led to the decision to make safety improvements on the A1307 the council's top priority.

He said: "The council has already spent hundreds of thousands of pounds on safety improvements and we are looking at reducing the speed limit on four sections of the road.

"But this is not the end of the matter. We will continue to look for ways of reducing accidents on this and other roads across Cambridgeshire. Road users also need to do their part as well by driving in a safe manner."

Family fights stigma for their special girls

Like most doting parents, Tim and Charlotte Badenoch consider their children to be special.

After all, Ellena, six, and three-year-old Georgia are a 1-in-17,000 genetic rarity.

But while observers snatching a glance at the girls would agree they are unique, to the Badenochs their distinctiveness comes, not from their albinism, but because they are theirs.

Tim wants them to be treated like everyone else. He said: "It is offensive to be labelled. It is just more ammunition for the bullying mentality. The girls are just children who have albinism, not part of a group."

"Albinism is often portrayed as a type of mock-evil, with people having fun poked at them. That might be fun in a blockbuster movie but when children are pointing their fingers it is a bit different."

Albinism is a genetic condition resulting in a reduction or complete lack of pigment, or colour, in the skin, hair and eyes.

Tim and Charlotte, who live in Tiberius Close, Haverhill, each carry the gene and when they conceived had a one-in-four chance of having a baby with albinism. The girls were each born with it and as a result have pale skin, white hair and severe short-sight and photophobia – a sensitivity to light.

Tim said: "To start with it was all a bit of a worry as we heard some horror stories and we did wonder how they would ever get by, but at the end of the day, they are held back a little but they live the same lifestyle as any child their age.

Reporter BEN LEE speaks to the family of two young girls with albinism about the wonderful support they have received.

"They just deal with things in a different way to cope with it."

"Their vision is reduced but if you look at them running around it doesn't seem to have affected them. It is not as devastating as it seems."

The condition will get no worse, or better, during the girls' lifetime and cannot be cured. It means they are sensitive to the sun but with the correct protection are under no greater threat than anyone else.

"When a person with normal sight walks into bright sunlight they squint and have to adjust," said Tim. "But for the girls it is like that all the time. They do get used to the bright sunlight but they probably squint a bit more than most."

"It is about comfort levels at the end of the day. They are better off in shaded areas or inside."

■ ALL SMILES . . . sisters Ellena, six, and Georgia Badenoch, three, have albinism. Their parents are keen for the girls to have a normal life, despite the ignorance that some people have about the condition.

Ellena has 3/60 vision – which means she needs to be three meters from an object to see it at the same clarity as someone else 60 metres from it. She is registered blind but attends Coupals Primary School, in Haverhill. Tim said: "Ellena is getting to the age when she notices that the teacher is doing things differently for her. She gets more attention but the teachers try to make things normal for her. She is dealing with it really well."

The family is supported by the UK-based Albinism Fellowship.

Tim said: "We go and meet other families as much as possible because it is nice for the girls to see children that are like them."

"We have not had to go and seek out any help at all. Right from when they were first diagnosed we have been supported every step of the way."

This Christmas the girls were invited backstage at Cambridge Arts Theatre during a performance of its 2007 pantomime, Cinderella.

They had a "touch tour", designed for people who suffer from impaired vision and went back stage, spoke to the cast, tried on the costumes and handled the props.

While the girls are young they are leading a full life and Tim is confident it will continue as they get older.

He said: "There is a stigma and it is a worry that people will stare and point the finger but the girls have not had to deal with it yet."

"People do comment on their grey hair and when we tell them they have albinism they don't know what to say."

"People comment first without knowing what they are saying. What is harder to deal with is the ignorance."

Tories under fire over 'moon' miles

A POLITICAL row has broken out over the massive mileage claims made by staff and councillors.

Liberal Democrat opposition councillors have criticised the Conservative administration on Suffolk County Council over the £5.7 million bill for the 19 million business miles recorded during the 2006/7 financial year.

At a time when councils are being urged to reduce their carbon footprint, the Liberal Democrats have said the distance involved was equivalent to travelling to the moon and back 39 times.

The party group on the council has highlighted the figures alongside proposals by the Conservatives to axe £1 million in bus subsidies.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Coun Kathy Pollard, the Liberal Democrat leader on the council, said: "This is quite an astronomical figure.

"We could have gone to the moon and back 39 times with the mileage the Conservative-run council racked up last year alone.

"When we were in power we were looking into using modern technology to cut down the need to travel such huge distances. This seems to have all but stopped under this Tory administration.

"Where is the innovation? This is costing Suffolk's taxpayers nearly £6 million a year and doing untold damage to the environment.

"The administration needs to set strict targets to get this under control, something we did when in power.

"These figures come at a time when the administration is proposing nearly £1 million in cuts to bus services across Suffolk. Once again we see yet another aspect of Conservative policy undermining their claims to be creating the greenest county."

No-one from the Conservatives was available for comment.

Fish tales

FISH and fisheries will be the main topic of a talk by Adam Piper, of the Environment Agency, at the next meeting of the Haverhill branch of the Suffolk Wildlife Trust next Wednesday. The talk on the work of the agency will start at 7.45pm at the East Town Park Centre in Coupals Road, Haverhill. All are welcome and admission is £1.50.

Bins blaze

FIREFIGHTERS from Haverhill were called to extinguish blazes in three wheelie bins in a storage area in Camps Road, Haverhill. Police want to speak to anyone who saw anything suspicious before the incident, which was reported at 8.44pm on December 20. Call Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 if you can help.

Theft bid

A RED Vauxhall Corsa was broken into in Haverhill. Thieves got in through a smashed window and tried to steal a stereo cover in Layer Road, Haverhill between December 16 and 19.

Anyone with information is asked to call Pc Jonathan Chapman at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100.

Go online to get places

SCHOOL applications for Haverhill pupils can now be done online.

Children who will be starting primary, infant, junior or middle schools in September need to have their applications registered with Suffolk County Council by Friday, February 1.

Parents can apply for a Suffolk school using this facility regardless of where they live.

If you do not want to submit an application online, you can fill out a CAF1 form, which can be downloaded from the Suffolk County Council website.

The outcome of online applications can be emailed to parents if they have asked to receive notification by email, and offers of a school place will be sent out by first class post on April 15 2008.

Policing partners join forces

BY Ben Lee

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

POLICE forces are set to share resources in Suffolk and Norfolk in a bid to deliver a better service to the public.

The forces agreed to become "preferred partners" in an announcement to officers and staff. They will now identify how they can share their knowledge and expertise for mutual benefits.

Simon Ash, Suffolk's chief constable, said: "This is an exciting development for both Norfolk and Suffolk and we are committed to working as efficiently and effectively as possible."

"We will continue to actively support regional collaboration and to build on the excellent relationships that already exist with Cambridgeshire and other forces in our region."

"The preferred partnership simply recognises that it is faster and easier for two organisations who share much in common to move forward together."

Protective services, the command which includes major investigations, intelligence, vulnerable people and forensic services, is the first area of work to be highlighted.

The forces agreed to have a single joint protective services command to deliver specialist crime and operation services.

Gulshan Kayembe, chairman of Suffolk Police Authority, said: "It makes sense for us to move forward together."

"Today's police service needs the development of stronger links between the forces and this collaboration with Norfolk can only help us provide a more efficient and effective service to local people."

Ian McPherson, Norfolk's chief constable, said the move would result in increased operational capability for frontline policing.

He aid: "It is about thinking differently and working in different ways to overcome the twin challenges of a future marked by a continued pressure on budgets and the desire to improve our services further."

Wood - Peake

Ashley Wood and Samantha Peake, both of Haverhill, were married at the Bellagio Hotel Chapel, Las Vegas, in the USA.

Thanks for a special day

THE Salvation Army had 55 people round the table for Christmas dinner in Haverhill this year.

The charity collected money at the local Sainsbury's supermarket to help pay for the meal.

And there were presents and entertainment for everyone who made it to the town's Salvation Army Hall in Chantry Road.

Captain Stuart Ashman said: "We served meals to people who would have spent the day alone if they had not been there, creating an extended family for the day."

"I want to thank all those who helped to make it so special, but also to all those who donated at Sainsbury's to help pay for it."

Back to school for party-goers!

PARTY-GOERS of all ages donned school uniforms for a special Christmas party. Volunteers and users headed to Haverhill Day Centre, in Camps Road, for a festive get together. And to give it some extra spice, the fiesta was given a St Trinian's theme. Everyone got into the spirit by digging out their old school ties and short skirts. Jean Lane, who helped organise the party, said: "We've had a great time and it is just nice to have everyone around at Christmas."

Fresh bid for trust status

BY Ben Lee

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

WEST Suffolk Hospital has been given the green light to re-apply for NHS Foundation Trust status.

The hospital trust, which takes patients from Haverhill, has been nominated by the East of England Strategic Health Authority to the Department of Health as ready to proceed with a foundation trust application.

The trust has a £12 million historic deficit, which resulted in a delay in its application in the summer, and though it is still required to pay back the money, it is no longer a barrier to its plans to seek foundation trust status.

Chief executive Chris Bown said: "This is good news for staff and patients. We are set on becoming an NHS Foundation Trust and we continued to develop our application, including the development of an integrated business plan, which underpins sound financial and organisational management."

A 12-week consultation with local communities is due to run from January 21 until April 13. The trust said securing the views of local people who use the Bury St Edmunds hospital's services is an essential component of the bid.

The trust said the hospital has made "tremendous progress" since its last foundation trust application was turned down in March 2005 because of its financial situation.

It has made a significant reduction in costs of around £20 million over the past three years.

The Gross rate is the contractual rate of interest payable before deduction of income tax at the rate specified by law (currently 20%).

The Net rate is the rate paid after income tax has been deducted (currently 20%).

The Annual Equivalent Rate (AER) is a notional rate which illustrates what the gross interest rate would be if interest was paid and added to the account annually. AERs on an account which pays monthly interest assumes interest is added to the account at the end of each month during the year. In practice, the option to have interest added in this way is not available on our Hallmark monthly interest option.

The Tax-free rate is the contractual rate of interest payable where interest is exempt from income tax.

All the above rates are variable. Mini Cash and TESSA Only Individual Savings Accounts (ISAs), and Cash Child Trust Fund accounts, pay interest tax-free provided all terms and conditions of the account types are met. On all other accounts, interest will be paid at the net rate after the appropriate rate of income tax (currently 20%) has been deducted, or gross on receipt of the required declaration form. Where interest is paid net, the income tax may be reclaimed if the amount deducted exceeds the investor's tax liability. Higher rate taxpayers will have to pay the extra due (the difference between tax deducted at 20% and the higher rate of 40%). Tax assumptions are based on current legislation which may change in the future. Net rates are illustrative only and have been rounded to two decimal places. Full terms and conditions are available from all our branches. Cambridge Building Society complies with The Banking Code.

NOTICE TO EXISTING BORROWERS

With effect from 28th December 2007, the rate of interest for mortgages decreased by 0.25% per annum until further notice. The revised Variable Home Loan Rate (equivalent to Standard Variable Rate) is 6.70% p.a. The revised Commercial Base Rate, for non owner-occupied residential loans, is 7.20% p.a. Under the annual review system, this change of interest will be reflected in the revised monthly payments effective from March 2008.

This notice does not apply to any mortgage account operated by interim review. Those borrowers will be notified separately.

Residents 'must have road toll discount'

CONGESTION charging in Cambridge will not be supported by the city council unless residents get "substantial" discounts.

Cambridge City Council says plans to charge those living in Cambridge as well as people driving into the city "full whack" will unfairly penalise its inhabitants.

Coun Sian Reid, the city council's executive councillor for climate change and growth, said not only was a discount necessary to make up for a lack of public transport in the city but it needed to be "considerable".

She added the scheme would not work if it was "imposed" on Cambridge without the support of the city council.

The authority's environment scrutiny committee will discuss its initial response on Tuesday.

BY Rachel Exance

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A report to councillors by Brian Human, head of policy and projects, says although the council supports many of the scheme's objectives, it has a number of concerns:

■ No effective analysis has yet been published to justify or cost the proposed scheme.

■ The scheme would unfairly penalise Cambridge residents.

■ The proposals would fail to deal with some of the worst congestion peaks on major city roads.

Cambridgeshire County Council unveiled plans in July to charge all motorists between £3 and £5 for driving in Cambridge between 7.30am and 9.30am on weekdays.

It has bid for £500 million of Government money for public transport improvements to get people to leave their cars at home and prevent gridlock.

Public consultation on congestion charging and how the £500 million should be spent is currently taking place and so far 700 people have visited roadshows around the county to give their views. Transport bosses are encouraging more people to get involved in the debate.

Coun Reid says the scheme as it stands is unfair and public transport in the city will never be good enough to match the provision of park and ride services for those coming in.

She said: "We expect a pretty substantial discount. We are talking about a profound discount – not a 10 per cent discount."

"We believe if this is going to go ahead, residents must have a discount because they simply won't have alternative means of transport. It wouldn't be fair always for them to pay full whack driving in the city when there won't be a comparable transport system in place.

"Even with the best will in the world I don't think there could be a comprehensive transport system. If you look at people driving in, there is a big investment in park and ride.

"There's also the issue of people commuting out of the city. Some people in my ward would be just driving half a mile out of the city to go somewhere else. That's hardly increasing congestion."

No decision has yet been taken on whether to go ahead with congestion charging or what form the scheme would take. Roadshows are taking place around the county until February 13 as part of public consultation.

Coun Roy Pegram, Cambridgeshire County Council's cabinet member for environment and community services, said he would consider the idea of a discount.

He said: "I will quite happily consider any of their views. Once I have the responses to the public consultation then I will make an informed judgment. I will take it on board."

"The decision will be made by full council and cabinet at the county because we are the transport authority. It's no good having consultation, getting the public's views and then not taking their views on board. What I'm not going to do is preempt the public consultation."

Special farewell to dedicated head

HEADTEACHER Olwen Powell has retired from a Haverhill primary school.

But her colleagues and pupils didn't want her to leave without them saying goodbye. Teachers from around the district attended a meal in her honour and a special leaving ceremony was held in the school hall.

Haverhill's MP Richard Spring paid tribute to Miss Powell. He said: "I have known Miss Powell for some years. She has been totally committed to the school and to education in Suffolk.

"Miss Powell has been an outstanding teacher who has worked tirelessly to make improvements at the school. I am extremely sad to see her go and I know that she will be very much missed by all the children and staff.

"However, I wish her well in her retirement and thank her for all her hard work and support over so many years."

Helicopter may go to save police cash

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A POLICE force may give up its helicopter to save £4 million.

Council Tax payers may have to pay an extra nine per cent towards police services if Suffolk Police Authority includes extra cash in its budget towards replacing its helicopter in 2010.

In the meantime, the force is having talks with adjoining county forces about sharing a helicopter. Suffolk is already part of a consortium with Cambridgeshire and Essex – they cover each other's areas when necessary.

Simon Ash, Suffolk's Chief Constable, has told the authority that work was already under way with five other counties to examine potential ways of saving money by sharing air support costs.

The authority has allocated £8.6 million in reserves over the next three years, which includes £4 million towards replacing the helicopter, which came into service in 2000.

Money is also needed for new computer software and replacing or renovating Ipswich Police Station.

Mr Ash said Suffolk received the lowest financial settlement from the Government nationally.

■ UNDER A CLOUD... Suffolk Constabulary's helicopter needs replacing.

But the force would be compared to other counties which received more cash.

He said: "The decision we make about the coming year's budget provision will undoubtedly have an impact on our ability to deal with these things in the years ahead. We need to consider a substantial precept increase."

The authority will consider the options for future funding, including the helicopter, and recommend next year's Council Tax at its next meeting later this month.

There are already worries about Council Tax rises next year. Suffolk County Council, whose budget makes up the largest part of the total tax demand for householders, has warned of "continued financial pressure" despite receiving an increase of 7.3 per cent from the Government.

The county will receive £155 million from the Government for 2008-9.

But Coun Jane Storey, the council's portfolio holder for resource management and transformation, said: "This level of settlement means we face some challenging decisions. We will have to decide between what we want to do and what we can afford."

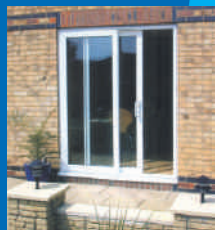

The county council's cabinet will consider budget recommendations on Tuesday, February 5, and report to the full council on February 19 when the 2008/9 Council Tax will be set.

Cambridgeshire County Council has already warned of a five per cent tax increase and cuts in services.

Creating success stories

GCSE and SAT results over the last three years have placed Samuel Ward in the top 10 per cent of schools nationally for its high value added, and with its new approach to sixth form learning, years 12 and

13 are fast catching up.

These results, along with its unique accolades as a Training School, Leading Edge School and its three Specialist College status awards for technology, arts and vocational subjects

Samuel Ward adds value to learning curve make it one of the most successful schools in the Eastern region.

The success is down to the unique learning process that pupils experience when they join the school. The process puts the emphasis on the individual pupil and their particular needs in order to achieve the highest possible outcomes. Whether they are destined to join Cambridge University or have basic literacy and numeracy needs, the school "values the success of each individual, their honesty and integrity, and fosters resilience and independence".

Pupils arrive from a wide area, both within and from outside Suffolk, and the school has developed a wide range of diagnostic tools to ensure that it understands the precise needs of each pupil. These needs are the basis for an individual learning plan, which identifies academic, social and learning style needs and becomes a route map for their journey through school.

Tutor groups are based around friendship groups of about 12 and individual learning plans are formally reviewed every half term with their mentor and parents. This three way partnership is crucial to the success of each pupil for it enables effective communication and swift intervention to occur when needed.

Pupils are set for most subjects they study but the curriculum goes way beyond the national curriculum by offering a far broader range of subjects. Triple science, early examination entry and summer and weekend schools meet the needs of the most academic. Pupils with a more practical approach are offered a wide range of subjects through a partnership with West Suffolk College. Pupils with more varied skills are encouraged to excel in the areas that they show real potential. In this way, the ethos is positive and grounded on success.

Pupils at Samuel Ward can look forward to the future with confidence, a confidence built on firm values, a confidence that comes from preparing for the future now. As the school says: "The best way to predict the future . . . is to create it."

Genzyme Haverhill: Celebrating 25 Years - 1982-2007

On December 6th 2007 Genzyme in Haverhill celebrated its first quarter century in the town, marking 25 years of growth, innovation and success. To commemorate this silver anniversary, the company planted 25 silver birch trees at the site with a view to creating a quiet, green area for staff to enjoy in good weather.

A number of guests from organizations across the region, including Richard Herbert, Chairman of Haverhill Enterprise, representing the local business community and Peter McCarthy Ward, from EEDA, representing the wider business community, were invited to the ceremony. Les Ager, Haverhill's Deputy Mayor, planted the last tree aided by Mick Metcalfe, one of Genzyme's longest serving employees and Simon Cousins, Vice President and General Manager at Genzyme Haverhill.

Reflecting on some of the many fascinating and dramatic developments that have unfolded at the Haverhill site over the past 25 years, Simon Cousins said: "It has been an interesting journey. It has also been hugely eventful for the company. Without a doubt, Genzyme's record of innovation and success in Haverhill can be attributed to our legacy of exceptional employees with a passion for excellence and an unwavering commitment to our patients. Today, on our 25th anniversary, we celebrate the people of Genzyme who have contributed to this success throughout the years. It is their dedication that will continue to carry Genzyme forward."

One of the world's leading biotechnology companies, Genzyme's products and services are focused on rare inherited disorders, kidney disease, cancer and transplants. Genzyme's commitment to innovation continues today with a substantial development programme focused on these fields, as well as immune disease, infectious disease and other areas of unmet medical need. By seeking these out and developing solutions, Genzyme is able to provide hope to patients who otherwise would have no treatment options. The company's commitment extends to ensuring these patients have access to life-saving therapies regardless of where they are in the world.

Since its foundation in 1981, Genzyme Corporation, based in Boston in the USA, has grown from a small start-up to a diversified enterprise with nearly 10,000 employees in locations spanning the globe.

Genzyme's Haverhill site has contributed significantly to this success story. The parent company purchased Koch Light Ltd on the Hollands Industrial estate in Haverhill in 1982 and commenced operations with just 25 staff. After several years, facilities were constructed to enable the manufacture of pharmaceutical ingredients. Genzyme began M/F testing, labelling and distributing therapeutic products throughout Europe, which led to its achieving the Queen's Award for Export in 1994.

But it was only as it entered the 21st century that Genzyme emerged with the profile it has today. A dramatic restructure and building programme led to the creation of two large-scale plants which, as well as providing a ten-fold increase in production capacity, transformed the industrial landscape of Haverhill. Genzyme's very contemporary architecture remains a striking landmark closely associated with the town across the region.

West Suffolk MP, Richard Spring has stated: "It is a wonderful building and such a great tribute to Haverhill. I am absolutely thrilled as it is such a vote of confidence for the town and part of its renaissance."

Today, Genzyme's Haverhill operation continues to gain recognition for its state of the art development, manufacturing and distribution facilities and serves as a European hub. It manufactures bulk quantities of sevelamer hydrochloride, the active ingredient in Renigel, Genzyme's pioneering drug treatment for patients on kidney dialysis. Renigel is the only product on the market which can control phosphate levels in patients with chronic kidney failure.

Since the millennium, capital investment in the site has exceeded £100M and over 300 people are now employed there. It has always surpassed itself in health, safety and environmental terms and in 2006 won this category in the National Best Factory Awards. It has also received a coveted 4 Star Environmental rating from the British Safety Council, rendering it one of the most environmentally friendly pharmaceutical companies.

Having forged long standing and successful relationships with the local community and local schools, Genzyme continues to support many educational schemes and frequently organises school tours of the site. The company regularly contributes financial aid to a variety of local projects.

Genzyme's silver anniversary last December marked the beginning of yet another new era for the business, as it completes an £18 million expansion to accommodate the manufacture of the second generation renal failure drug Renvela, due to commence early this year.

However, the 'jewel in the crown' of 2007's anniversary year accomplishments was employee participation in Genzyme's global volunteer programme 'Genzyme Invests in Volunteer Efforts' (G.I.V.E) which aims to inspire staff to take part in initiatives which benefit their local communities. More than two thirds of Genzyme's workforce in Haverhill participated in the challenge, raising £6,500 locally and contributing over 230 hours worth of volunteering activity at St Nicholas' Hospice. In recognition of this unprecedented achievement, Genzyme's parent company matched the sum with a further donation of $15,000 resulting in the Hospice receiving a total of £13,700.

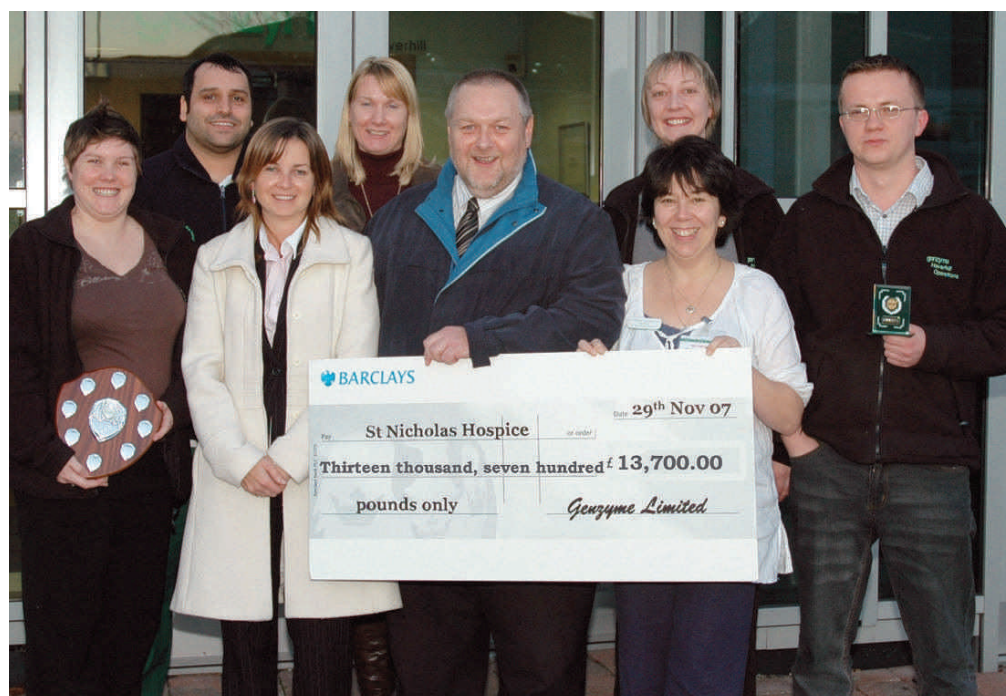

At the anniversary celebrations held in December, Simon Cousins thanked all of those present for their commitment to the company and the part they play in providing and ensuring medication reaches the people who need it at the right moment. He said: "I congratulate everybody at Genzyme, past and present, for their roles in making us what we stand for today, and hope that this event will not only mark twenty five years of history-making achievement, but the start of another prosperous and inspirational period in our future history."

He also expressed his thanks to the people of Haverhill saying: "Our successes couldn't have been accomplished without the support of our local community and authorities which makes doing business in Haverhill always a pleasure."

Genzyme's international presence, groundbreaking innovations and expertise in life sciences carries the name of Haverhill across the world. There's a real sense of excitement within the company for what the future holds.

2008 IS THE YEAR OF THE DESTINATION SPA PREDICTS ATLANTIC HEALTH AND SPA

More and more people in recent years are turning to relaxation treatments to pamper themselves and reduce the stress in their lives. The number of high street salons now offering these treatments is a clear reflection of this.

Atlantic Health and Spa at Houghton Hall, located between Cavendish and Clare, predicts that in 2008 it is actually the destination spas that will benefit the most from this trend. "People want more than just the treatment itself these days," says Director Leslie Berger who goes on to explain "the setting for the treatment, the personal service and what else is on offer before and after the treatment are increasingly important as customers become more discerning."

Ease of parking amid the beautiful Suffolk countryside, the availability of a swimming pool and thermal suite and healthy but delicious food and drink options are all available at Atlantic Health and Spa.

The club and spa are based in a series of converted barns on the Houghton Hall Estate run by husband and wife team Rob Wise and Leslie Berger. "With farming in the doldrums we turned to this project to make use of the redundant farm buildings," says Rob, "and the result has been spectacular."

The centrepiece of the club is the swimming pool and Jacuzzi set in a stunning vaulted 15th Century timber barn. Whether gazing up into the ancient roof space or through the picture windows to the beautiful countryside beyond, it's quite simply magical.

Both the pool and Jacuzzi utilise the latest UV technology to ensure the water feels soft and the air is pure. Radiating from the pool and Jacuzzi are a sauna and a beautifully tiled steam room, complete with aroma and light therapy.

The state-of-the-art gym, set in a fully restored timber frame cart lodge, has an excellent selection of the very latest resistance and cardio vascular machines all with individual TV screens. There are also free weights and a matted area for floor exercises and warm up.

Atlantic Health and Spa offers a carefully selected range of treatments, available individually or as part of a spa day package. The treatments feature products containing natural ingredients such as salts, minerals, algae, fruits and herbs, which guarantee noticeable results. There is a full range of facials, wraps, massages, manicures and pedicures, to choose from. The friendly and professional therapists can help you choose the treatments most suited to you.

Club memberships are available on a daily, monthly or annual basis. "We opened our doors to 400 members at the end of July," says Rob, "and we've been adding new members ever since. We expect an influx in January as people act on their New Year's resolutions to get fit. We can already see bookings of treatments and spa days, particularly bought as "experience" gifts, continuing to grow significantly. We hope to soon reach our target membership level."

The availability of the café restaurant which is open seven days a week is an added attraction for both members and day guests. The range of morning coffees, healthy salads and snacks, full lunches and afternoon teas is also attracting local people as a new place to eat out - you don't have to be a member to use the café, have a treatment or take a class.

The business will further expand in 2008 as Atlantic works with local hotels and bed and breakfasts to introduce short break packages for those coming from further away. Corporate meetings and away days will also feature. The combination of meeting facilities, in-house catering and all the spa facilities, make Atlantic a perfect venue for this growing market.

"All in all we expect to welcome a lot of new faces to Atlantic in 2008 in addition to welcoming back all our existing spa customers and members," says Leslie.

Charities get something to sing about

HAVERHILL residents enjoyed a carol service organised by their landlord.

Havebury Housing Partnership spread some festive spirit during its second annual carols service at St Edmundsbury Cathedral. Mayor of St Edmundsbury, Coun Margaret Charlesworth, and Bury St Edmunds MP David Ruffley joined almost 200 Havebury residents, employees and suppliers for the seasonal event, which included carol singing with the St Edmundsbury Cathedral Ladies Choir.

Three local charities also shared a Christmas gift of £9,000. Cheques were presented by Coun Charlesworth and Havebury life president Muriel Healey to St Nicholas Hospice in Bury St Edmunds, rehabilitation charity Focus 12 and the Bury St Edmunds branch of the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

They each received a £3,000 share of the money raised from Havebury's annual charity golf day.

Festive delights continue with timeless Nutcracker

By Nik Shelton

THE Nutcracker is synonymous with the festive season and has kept millions of ballet lovers enchanted for more than 100 years. The Ellen Kent company will be bringing Tchaikovsky's masterpiece to life once again at the Cambridge Corn Exchange on Monday and Tuesday.

The production is being directed by Yuri Grigorovich, who for 30 years was the director of the world-famous Bolshoi Ballet. It includes a full cast, a live orchestra and stars Kristina Terentieva, winner of the 2007 Grand Prix International Dance competition in Vienna.

Terentieva is used to living life on the high wire and stretching her body to the limit. "Ever since I was a little girl my dream was to become a ballerina," she says.

"My mother took me to see a ballet once and ever since I wanted to be a part of this graceful, delicate and beautiful dance form – to be able to express one's feeling and emotions through body movement has become my goal."

Kristina began training as a gymnast at the age of four in her native Moldova and was a natural performer. She loved attending workshops with both the circus and local folk dance troupes. When her father saw her walking the high wire in the circus he decided that perhaps he would prefer a career as a dancer for her and arranged for professional ballet training.

Nowadays, it is a family

■ ENCHANTING... Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker returns to the Cambridge Corn Exchange next week.

business as her husband Alexei is also a talented ballet dancer. "It is absolutely wonderful dancing with your husband," she says. "You can discuss all the technicalities and difficulties of ballet parts and work out together the best way of handling them."

"The most important thing is that I am very confident in him, both as a partner on stage and in life. He is a true gentleman, I always feel protected, cared for and loved by him. He is also a wonderful dancer. I think we make a good couple, both on stage and in life." Being in high demand across Europe has meant travelling is a way of life for the dancing family, but Kristina has learned to live with it.

"I love travelling, and this is how I think of touring. It gives me a chance to combine what I like doing – ballet – with what is good for me – travelling. Meeting people from different countries, getting a feel for their culture is always exciting. "The only downside to this is that we normally travel without our five-year-old daughter, Alisa, and when we are away, we miss her so much.

"I do not mind living out of suitcases at all, this is what any dancer has to do, but it makes the journey back home and awaiting seeing people dear to your heart, so very special."

The Nutcracker will be at the Corn Exchange on Monday at 7.30pm and Tuesday at 2.30pm and 7.30pm. Tickets are £10-£31. To book call (01223) 357851.

MOTORING

High-milers are a no-no on the used car forecourt

THE one used car we don't want to buy is... a high mileage one.

That's the verdict of to British trade price guide publisher EurotaxGlass's, which says potential buyers are continuing to walk away from second-hand vehicles with higher mileages.

Adrian Rushmore, managing editor at EurotaxGlass's, which publishes Glass's Guide, the trade's pricing bible, says: "There remains a stigma attached to a used car with more than 100,000 miles, and many owners avoid passing through this psychological barrier during their period of ownership for fear of instant devaluation."

The company compared the trade prices and mileages of more than 200,000 vehicles, identifying a steady increase in rates of depreciation as mileage readings rise.

The analysis indicates that, for the average three-year-old car, the highest falls in value are apparent between 60,000 and 100,000 miles.

EurotaxGlass's used as its benchmark a three-year-old car with a typical 40,000 miles. If the same make, model and age of car had covered 50,000 miles, the trade value would be four per cent lower.

However, from 60,000 up to 100,000 miles, the financial penalty increases to five per cent for each multiple of 10,000 miles.

"As soon as a car passes the 60,000 mile threshold, the penalties increase because perceived desirability falls," says Rushmore.

Using the same example of a three-year-old car, beyond 100,000 miles the additional fall in trade value for each 10,000 covered reduces from five per cent to three per cent, and this figure drops again, to two per cent after 200,000 miles.

EurotaxGlass's also found that cars with below-average mileage do not benefit from an improvement in trade value comparable in scale to the penalty incurred where mileage is above average.

Again, taking the example of the typical three-year-old used car, for each 10,000 miles under the expected 40,000, the trade value improves by just two per cent.

Historically, higher mileage diesel cars shed less of their value than petrol cars with the same mileage, but this is now no longer true says Rushmore.

"The price adjustments for diesel cars in respect of mileage now generally follow the same pattern as petrol cars. Up until 18 months ago, the penalties for diesel models were smaller, but then, so too was the supply."

If you're looking for an accurate used car valuation, where exact mileage is taken into account, you can download a valuation report from www.glass.co.uk for £3.50. Users receive a comprehensive valuation assessment which reflects the specification and possible condition of the car (Excellent, Average, Below Average) and also includes a dealer retail price and a private sale value.

But another big worry for used-car buyers is the mileage – is it genuine? It isn't always easy to spot if a car has had the odometer altered, but do look for tell-tale signs – worn pedal rubbers for example.

Also take a good look at the driver's seat, and a low mileage car with a tatty seat should ring alarm bells. Do try to buy a used vehicle with a checkable service history, which will contain mileage pointers.

ROAD TRAFFIC REGULATION ACT 1984 – SECTION 14(1)(a), 5(b) AND (7)
THE A14 TRUNK ROAD (HISTON INTERCHANGE, JUNCTION 32, TO STOW-CUM-QUY INTERCHANGE, JUNCTION 35, CAMBRIDGESHIRE)
(TEMPORARY RESTRICTION AND PROHIBITION OF TRAFFIC) ORDER 2007

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Secretary of State for Transport has made an Order on the A14 Trunk Road near Cambridge in the County of Cambridgeshire, to allow for the resurfacing of the A14 eastbound carriageway between Milton and Fen Ditton, removal of an existing substandard layby, and renewal works to safety barriers, signage and bridge expansion joints.

It is expected that the works will take place over a period of 8 weeks starting on, or after, Monday 7 January 2008. The Order will come into force when the appropriate traffic signs are erected from 4 January 2008 and have a maximum duration of eighteen months.

For the safety of the general public, from 00.01 hours starting on Monday 7 January 2008 until completion of the works, the effect of the Order will be to -

- (a) impose a 50 miles per hour speed limit on the A14 -

Vehicles exceeding the 3.2 metres width restriction whilst waiting for authorised vehicles to escort them through the works, will be permitted to use the laybys described at (b)(iv) and (c)(ii) above.

Works will be carried out between the hours of 20.00 to 06.00 the following morning. During these periods of overnight works, the effect of the Order will be to close the A14 eastbound -

A contraflow will be in operation on the westbound carriageway during the eastbound carriageway closure.

FOOTBALL ROUND-UP

Rovers flunk
College exam

■ SWITCH... Sam Green has made the move from Haverhill Rovers to local rivals Newmarket Town.

■ SAVIOUR... Haverhill Rovers goalkeeper Arron Benstead's crucial penalty save helped his team to victory at Kirkley on Saturday and move upto fourth in the table.

HAVERHILL Rovers remain fourth in the table – despite losing to a youthful Cambridge Regional College side at the Abbey Stadium last night.

Two goals in the last 20 minutes were enough to bring high-flying Rovers back to earth after a great run over recent weeks.

After a goalless first half, the home side got their noses in front on 73 minutes when Haverhill goalkeeper Arron Benstead failed to properly deal with a Sam Cutler free kick, which allowed Rory McAuley to bundle home the rebound.

CRC then doubled their lead six minutes later when McAuley set up Adam Marriott to catch Rovers napping.

Rovers, for whom it was their first defeat in four games, got a consolation strike on 90 minutes courtesy of Martin Westcott.

Haverhill had reached the dizzy heights of fourth in their first season back in the Premier Division following a third win on the bounce at Kirkley and Pakefield on Saturday.

A lot of thanks for that victory must go to keeper Benstead for his 17th-minute penalty save after the hosts were awarded the spot-kick for a handball in the box by Haverhill captain Marcus Hunt.

The visitors then got the only goal of the game on 31 minutes when Colin Vowden's cross was headed on by Adam Ben-Saud to Nick Impey, whose close-range effort finally went in off a defender and the Kirkley keeper.

Rovers had chances to kill off the game in the second half, mainly through Impey, but the one goal proved to be enough.

■ Haverhill striker Sam Green has moved to near-neighbours Newmarket Town and made his debut for his new club in their local derby with Mildenhall yesterday.

Jockeys' boss Karl Johnson had been keeping tabs on Green for some time and was pleased to have finally secured the services of the midfielder.

He said: "Sam's a good footballer and he's got plenty of aggression. I think he'll be perfect for us."

■ Rovers are back in Ridgeons League, Premier Division action on Saturday when Stanway Rovers are the visitors to Hamlet Croft.

Eight-goal Wratting's derby joy

West Wratting U11 8 Haverhill Rovers U11 0

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION U11A

AFTER a shaky start, Wratting commanded the game and with a convincing second-half performance, blasted their local rivals with eight crackers.

Haverhill were hit with both barrels as Scotton, Lambert and Ager grabbed two goals apiece, with Cooper and Foster adding the other scores.

It was Foster who settled the nerves by rattling home an 18-yard thunderbolt.

Lambert soon added the second as Wratting eased through a first period.

The second half was much better and, within seconds, Scotton had scored No 3.

Lambert grabbed his second and then Scotton scored again to make it 5-0 within five minutes of the restart.

Ager, who was tireless and really wanted a slice of the action, finally scored his first of the season after a goalmouth scramble and he went on to finish his second well.

Cooper grabbed Wratting's eighth and final goal.

Rovers did put up a brave fight with Fitch saving well on several occasions to keep the score down.

For Wratting, Stevenson had an outstanding game on both left and right wings with deadly delivery, earning himself Wratting's man-of-the-match award.

Linton Aztecs U10A 3 West Wratting Yellows U10 6

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION 10E

WRATTING started the brightest in this local derby.

The Yellows passed the ball well as Charlie Ellam broke the deadlock with a fine shot following a neat cross from Charlie Ripp.

There seemed only one team in it, but, after a mid-half reshuffle, Aztecs raised their game and went in at half-time 2-1 up.

After a few firm words at half-time, Wratting took to the field in determined mood.

Jake Murphy and Scott Bishop worked hard in setting up the equaliser for man-of-the-match Leyton George, who then scored two more before Dion Whitrid made it five.

Aztecs pulled one back before George grabbed his fourth to make the final score 6-3 to Wratting.

West Wratting Reds U10 6 Great Bardfield U10 1

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE

WRATTING made the long trip to Great Bardfield to play the hosts in the last match of 2007.

The Reds made the stronger start with frontman Alex Carter opening the scoring with a right-footed shot.

However, parity was restored with the hosts equalising almost immediately.

Wratting pushed forward and were rewarded with Carter scoring his second before Will Bailey fired home his first of the match.

The restart saw Wratting goalkeeper Ben Eames, now playing in an outfield role, poke home the fourth.

Carter's lofted pass found Bailey who thumped home the Reds' fifth.

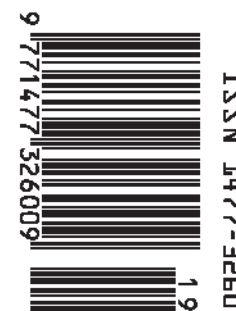

With the game winding down, Eames was in the right spot to score after Bailey's fierce shot had cannoned off the cross bar.

GOLF

Kennedy's win off Pat

THE colder weather, and probably Christmas shopping, drastically affected the ladies Saturday Medal competition at Haverhill Golf Club with only three stalwarts turning up to play.

The scores reflected the conditions as Pat Kennedy took the Silver Division with a 77 and Lyn Fish the Bronze Division after returning a nett score of 86. Sheila Price (89) was third.
